TROOPS BUSY; CHINK PRESS WEARS MUZZLE

People Kept in Ignorance of Real Situation.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC STOPPED

Imperial Troops Are Being Rushed to Scene of Uprising In Southern Provinces—Three Thousand Hunan Soldiers Join Army of Insurgency. San Yang Arsenal Worked In Double Shift by Rebels—Leader Li Mum as to Amount of Funds.

Peking, Oct. 16.—Although the public is ignorant of the real situation because of the strict censorship of the Chinese press, the people can not fail to see that there is a constant movement of the troops. The total suspension of passenger traffic on the railroads has caused excitement. There are continuous runs on the Chinese banks, the depositors transferring their deposits to foreign banks. An edict transfers the viceroy, Chao Erh Feng, from Szechuan, wherein there are several disaffected cities, to his old post in Tibet.

The Peking theaters are closed. The entire imperial guards division has returned. The railroads are working at high pressure bringing troops back from Haiping, where the maneuvers have been called off. The telegraph offices have announced that they will not accept messages for Hupeh, Hanan, Kiangsi, Szechuan, Kweichow, or Gunnan. Hankow is thus effectually isolated. A telegram sent from Hankow says that the Chinese warships will notify the authorities before bombarding the city. It is expected that all foreigners will then leave the city, as they would probably be in danger should they remain. The German steamer Belgravia is standing near in case of an emergency.

More Troops Desert.

Three thousand Hunan troops encamped north of the city have joined the revolutionaries, but are not wearing the white armlets of the rebels. The rebels in the arsenal at San Yang are working in double shifts. They are turning out 25,000 rounds of ammunition daily and have 140 field guns ready for action.

The telegraph lines are in hands of the revolutionaries, and no trains are running.

Progressive Enthusiasts In Meeting

Urg Senator LaFollette to Announce Candidacy.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Twenty-five states were represented at the opening session of the National Progressive League conference here today. Friends of Senator LaFollette are active and are urging him to announce his candidacy for the next Republican presidential nomination. They say that none of the delegates present is against the LaFollette movement.

Senator Moses E. Clapp, who heads the Minnesota delegation, is in favor of the early announcement of the program. The conference was opened without a set program.

Horse Perishes In Livery Stable Fire

The Climax livery barn in Waverly, owned by Clarence Vallery, brother of Oscar Vallery, formerly of this county, was consumed by fire a few nights ago, which burned 21 head of horses, a large number of buggies, harness, grain and hay, together with a number of smaller barns in the vicinity. A buggy owned by the Dahl-Millikan Wholesale Company of this city, was burned and it is stated that one of Mr. Vallery's fast racing horses perished in the flames.

The loss sustained by Mr. Vallery is estimated at $6,000, of which $2500 is covered by insurance. The fire broke out at 10 o'clock and in a few minutes the barn was wrapped in flames. The fire department made a desperate effort to check the spread of the flames, and the new water works system, recently installed, was given its first trying out, and stood the test in a most satisfactory fashion.

Besides the livery barn, the barn in the rear of the Grand hotel and several small barns in the rear of residences were destroyed, but the flames were prevented from spreading to the hotel or the residences, although it seemed almost impossible at times to save some of them.

The origin of the fire is so far unknown.

Cincinnati's Postmaster Camping Near This City

During the past several days, Capt. E. R. Monfort, postmaster of the Cincinnati office, in company with Capt. Richard Reifenreick, a prominent C. H. & D. official; Dr. John Francis and Mr. L. M. Doner, all of Cincinnati, have been the guests of Mr. T. J. Lindsey in camp at Rock Mills, this county, enjoying themselves to the limit in hunting, fishing and boating.

The party of gentlemen arrived from Cincinnati last Friday, and remained in camp until Sunday evening, when Dr. Francis and Mr. Doner returned home, and Postmaster Monfort and Capt. Reifenreick came to this city, stopping at the Cherry hotel over night.

Monday morning Col. B. H. Mill-kan invited the two gentlemen to accompany him to his farm and summer home on Deer creek, where they are spending an ideal day the guests of Col. Millikan.

During the State G. A. R. encampment in this city, Postmaster Monfort made many friends, and was so pleased with Washington and her people that he took advantage of an invitation to spend a few days here.

Postmaster Monfort expressed his delight in being in this county and spoke of the splendid time he had enjoyed since the moment of his arrival.

His praise for Fayette county was warm indeed, and he talked for some time upon Fayette and her people.

He will return home in the morning.

It's Me for Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated tablets.

They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

It is easy to compel bowel and liver activity for a time with calomel and nasty, sickening, griping castor oil, but the after effects are dangerous, and the real cause of the trouble is often not even touched.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all.

They never gripe.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless.

Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try them.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

All druggists sell Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets in convenient pocket packages, at 10c and 25c.

Made by the Olive Tablet Co. of Portsmouth, Ohio, or Columbus, Ohio.

Reed Gets Wife; Was Chillicothean

George M. Reed, the Parish Furniture Company man, formerly of this city, now of Chillicothe, who gave a story to the Chillicothe papers a few days ago, telling how he was expecting his bride-to-be to arrive from Chicago at any time, wound up his little romance by marrying Cora Bresse, 33, Chillicothe.

Reed's story was believed to be more of a pipe dream than anything else from the beginning, and his story of advertising for a wife is regarded as a joke. George's new wife is a nurse.

BOOTLEGGER'S SUPPLY BASE

CARLOAD OF BOOZE

RAIDED AT CIRCLEVILLE

A car load of bottled beer and two barrels of whiskey in a dry town "saloon" is the remarkable find in Circleville, Saturday morning, when dry detectives raided the place of Mouser Crayne.

The Circleville Herald in telling the story, says:

This morning about ten o'clock, the marshal of Ashville and three "dry" detectives raided the saloon of Mouser Crayne at the corner of Main street and Western avenue, and while they did not capture the proprietor, they made a wholesale find of a car load of bottled beer in barrels, and two barrels of whiskey on the premises in direct violation of the Rose Law, placed therein no doubt for the benefit of those of its strong advocates to "sneak" beer into their places of residence under the guise of salt.

This county is not an exception to the general rule, as every county in the state that was voted "dry" has been over-run with "boot-leggers," who do not pay a cent into the treasury.

The proprietor of the Crayne saloon was not in evidence this morning and it is reported that he has been in Chillicothe the past week; the place was in charge of Denny Bowsher and was held up by one of the detectives who placed a gun under his nose and the warrant read to him by a second.

The contraband goods were shipped to Ashville via traction.

This has probably been the base of supply of the army of "boot-leggers" that have infested the city for some months, or ever since Crayne plead the poverty act in the court of Mayor Smith of Ashville.

FUNERAL OFCLARENCE FLOWERS.

Accompanied by the bereaved family and sorrowing friends, the remains of Clarence Flowers arrived here from South Charleston, Monday morning.

A beautiful service had been held at the home of the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Flowers in South Charleston, before the sad cortage started for the railway station.

Mr. Flowers was in the restaurant business in Springfield before his death and a number from Springfield attended the funeral.

Arriving here, Washington friends were in waiting at the station and a long line of carriages drove to the Washington cemetery, where Rev. Gaddis, of South Charleston, held a brief burial service at the grave.

There were very beautiful flowers which were brought over.

Mrs. Frank Perrill, a sister of the deceased husband and little son, Mrs. O. S. Tobin, of this city, and Mrs. Isaac Corey, of Good Hope, were at South Charleston for the funeral, coming over with the family. Also accompanying the parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Flowers, the brothers, Roy, Albert and Osa, and sister, Miss Hazel, were Rev. J. W. Gaddis, Miss Louise Van Meter, of South Charleston; Mrs. Tobin, the grandmother, and Miss Elda Tobin, of Jeffersonville; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Frazell, Messrs. T. L. Buckley, Flowers Groff and Geo. Elliott, of Springfield.

THE GAME.

The first game of the great series for the base ball championship of the world has been played.

The crowd was the largest which ever witnessed a ball game, the game was played in the largest city of the land and the crowd was seated in the largest grand stand in the country.

The champions of the National League—the New York Giants—were victors in the first struggle over the Philadelphia Athletics, the present holders of the title of world's champions.

Saturday's magnificent battle, with all its attending features, furnishes conclusive proof of the great and growing popularity of America's national game.

Two of the principal figures in the great struggle were, strange to say, native Americans, full blooded Indians. (Albert) Bender pitched for the Athletics and (John) Meyers caught for the Giants. It was the former's pitching which held the latter club to a small score and it was the batting and catching of Meyers which made New York's victory possible.

Base ball is today, by all odds, the cleanest, fairest sport on earth. Never the breath of scandal has arisen against it and it is that and the delightful uncertainty which attends a game of base ball, the utter absence of any "dope" predicated on previous performance of club or members, which makes it the most popular game today.

The brain and the brawn as well as the "luck" all figure in every game and the incalculable combinations possible with these three elements and eighteen intensely human athletes at work for an hour and a half or two hours, cast a doubt upon the result of every game until the last man is out in the ninth inning.

No wonder base ball is popular. It is the one game, full of possibilities, which may any instant be turned into probabilities or certainties by the arrangement of factors, which brain, skill or luck may make. Millions of people all over the land, from coast to coast and from lakes to gulf, awaited anxiously the result of Saturday's game. They will do the same thing today and tomorrow and each day that a game is played.

It is the democratic game of the great republic, the magnet which draws all alike regardless of caste or class and proves that all men are created equal.

If any man doubts the truth of that assertion let him attend a baseball game, like the one played in New York Saturday or any one of the thousands, played every day during the base ball season, and see the "fans" bring him up or down, as the particular case requires, the first time a strike out is made or a safe hit driven out.

No wonder base ball is popular. It deserves to be. It's wholesome.

Business Education

High School Tries to Make a Man of Student

By JOHN BRAYLE BRUCE

UNLESS one intends to study law or medicine a high-school education is unnecessary, according to a writer. I cannot agree.

It is true that certain studies are taught that are preparatory to these professions, but we have also a commercial course, such as bookkeeping, penmanship, stenography, commercial geography, commercial law, political economy and many similar studies in our high-school course.

Does not a good knowledge of German (not merely knowing how to say "Wie gehts" or "Guten morgen") come in handy in business life? Studies like algebra and geometry are not only of interest, but they develop quick thinking and sound judgment.

Of course, nine times out of ten, algebra or geometry will never be used in business, but it is the results of such study that count.

The statement that high-school chaps lower the wage scale is not only wrong but absurd.

A high-school graduate will not work for lower (let alone as low) wages than many boys who have not his education. He knows his ability and expects to be paid wages accordingly.

A high-school graduate certainly is not "satisfied with cigarette money" and it can be readily seen that few of them, comparatively, smoke cigarettes.

Now, aside from the business education of high school, there are other things, and are there not other things in life than merely a business education?

In conversation does no one like to be a little informed on all topics, whether historical, scientific or on any other?

A business man must know a little more than the mere facts relating to his business.

A salesman, to be successful, must know of other things to talk about than his wares.

I do not mean by this to imply that a grammar-school graduate will not succeed. It depends on him. But a good education combined with good natural qualities must of necessity fetch the better results.

The high school tries to teach and make a man out of every student who has the will to exert himself.

So we see that a high-school education is very good for the one of moderate as well as of small means, that it is essential for business as well as for professions and that it certainly should be encouraged.

Gorge of the River Arnon

The gorge of the River Arnon is one of the chief points of interest about the Dead sea, for it can boast the finest natural scenery in Palestine. The varicolored sandstone sides of the canyon rise perpendicularly to a height of 300 feet in places, and at some points are only about 20 feet apart. Should there be any truth in the assertion that Germany is coveting the Dead sea and its neighborhood, here, surely, her tourists would find a veritable Mecca, to which pilgrimages of pleasure would be made.

MONUMENT TO BLACK HAWK

On the banks of the Rock river in Illinois, at a beautiful spot known as Eagle's Nest, stands a remarkable monument to Black Hawk, the famous Indian warrior. The statue is the work of Lorado Taft, the well-known sculptor, and is the first ever constructed of reinforced concrete. It is 45 feet high.

SHE FEED ON HARDWARE

SHE FED ON HARDWARE

The London Lancet reports an extraordinary case of swallowing foreign bodies on the part of a mutilated woman admitted to one of the Missouri state hospitals. From the time she was admitted, suffering with dementia, until she died in the hospital, she never showed the least sign of disease of the digestive system. The attendants often saw her picking up nails and pins, but no one had seen her swallow any. After death, in addition to the foreign bodies in the stomach, there was a needle in the esophagus and another at the base of the left lung. The foreign bodies in the stomach weighed five pounds avoirdupois, and consisted of 453 nails, 42 screws, 136 ordinary pins, 115 hairpins, 105 safety pins, 62 carpet tacks, 63 buttons and a miscellaneous collection of bolts, metal nuts, teaspoon handles, thimbles, needles, beads and all sizes and shapes of similar objects, the total number being 1,446.

NOVEL WEDDING CEREMONY

To the long list of weddings in automobile, on horseback, in balloons and in other surroundings selected because of love or notoriety, has been added the marriage ceremony by telephone. Out in Iowa a minister yielded to the novel request to declare a man and a woman husband and wife "by wire." The three were separated by a very few miles. There is nothing in the accounts of the affair to show that they might not have met and gone through the ceremony in something like the usual manner. But they earned notoriety.

SNAKES FOND OF HONEY

Three men in cutting down a beehive in Venango county, Pa., discovered in opening it that a big black snake had devoured almost all the honey. The bee hole was forty feet from the ground and the men averred that the snake, attracted by the honey, had climbed the tree, had its feast, and when discovered by the bees they set upon him to drive him away, and literally covered the snake when found.

Catching Fish With a Pony

Fishing with the aid of horses as practiced at Mar del Plata in the Argentine arouses the amused interest of travelers in that country. The pony is ridden into the sea till the water is about three feet deep. The net is attached to the saddle and held at the other end by a man wading in the surf. After dragging the net some distance, the pony gradually comes to the shore and the fish are brought to land.

CAN YOU ASK MORE?

Your Money Back for the Asking.
You Promise Nothing.

We are so confident that we can furnish relief for indigestion and dyspepsia that we promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who uses it according to directions who is not perfectly satisfied with the results. We exact no promises and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely nothing could be fairer. We are located right here where you live, and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offering.

We want every one who is troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home, and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. If they don't please you, tell us and we will quickly return your money. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regular tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 25c., 50c., and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store, Blackmer and Tanquary.

Services Held by Indians.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16. Paying homage to the Great Spirit in word, gesture, song and prayer, Indians and a few of their paleface brothers held religious services in Memorial hall. Approximately 2,500 persons attended the meeting. The gathering was the last but one of a series of sessions held by delegates from many tribes to the first annual conference of the American Indian association. The program consisted of 10-minute talks by Dr. Robert C. Hall, Y. M. C. A. secretary among the Indians; Rev. Philip Deloria, South Dakota Sioux; Rev. Dr. Sherman Coolidge, Arapahoe Christian minister, and Henry Roe Cloud, student in the Oberlin seminary. Rev. Frank Myers, Indian evangelist of national reputation, made the principal address.

Weather Forecast.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Indications for tomorrow:

Ohio—Colder; increasing east to south winds, becoming northwest.

BURNING DAYLIGHT

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Brown's Drug Store.

Da Vinci's Writings.

Although Leonardo da Vinci was a voluminous writer, he never published a single line during his lifetime. After the master's death in France his manuscripts were taken back to Italy. His heirs proved unworthy, and the precious writings were gradually dispersed. Loose pages were often detached and were either given away as relics or stolen. No attempt was made to publish any of his treatises, except that on painting, for more than 300 years after his death. This was partly owing to the great difficulty of deciphering his handwriting. Da Vinci was left handed and always wrote in oriental fashion, from right to left. Besides this, his orthography is peculiar to himself. He abbreviates some words and joins others together and employs neither stops nor accents.—London Chronicle.

Mildly Censuring Him.

"My goodness!" she says, with a pretty scowl. "I think a girl would feel dreadfully foolish if she proposed to a man."

"I should think so, too," replies the diffident youth.

"But then I suppose there are some girls who are just simply compelled to do the proposing," she sighs.

After an hour's consideration of that remark he realizes what she really means.—Woman's World.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND.

The old family doctor, of whom so few are now seen in this age of "specialists" was the valued friend and adviser of his patients. They depended on him to keep them in health, and cheer them with his counsel. He taught them the wisdom of preventing illness by watching closely after the health of the family.

Mrs. S. H. DuBois writes from her home at Hempstead, L. I.: "Vinal is an old friend of our family. We have used it for years whenever any of us need a tonic on account of being in a rundown state of health, and it always gives perfect satisfaction. We have used nine bottles this winter."

There are thousands of families who could and do say the same thing. Vinal, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil, has proved its value by bringing back rugged health and strength to vast numbers of weak, rundown men, women and children. That is why we sell so much and guarantee it to give satisfaction. If it disappoints you, you can have your money back at once. Blackmer & Tanquary.

MRS. HARRY LEHR.

The society leader of New York and Newport says: "Mrs. Mason's hair treatment preserves and beautifies the hair and greatly increases its growth." Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream is now obtainable, 25c. Blackmer & Tanquary and other druggists.

BURNING DAYLIGHT is the best work yet produced by this masterful writer who has roughed it in many fields of adventure. Burning Daylight is a character fashioned out of the frozen North; how he comes out of the Klondike with wealth won from the obdurate earth, is vanquished and stripped of his millions in Wall Street, regains them, and returning to the West from whence he came, is conquered anew by love, then to renounce his riches, is told in the powerful style of this author who has achieved world-wide popularity.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Proof of Deception.

"Jones," said the bank president to his confidential secretary, "have the cashier shadowed tonight and do not let him leave the city on any pretext. I shall have his accounts examined before morning."

"Yes, sir," responded the secretary imperturbably.

"He pretends to have grown up in a country village," the president continued, "and yet I overheard him retelling the story of a ball game which occurred in this village when he was a young man, and the score was 3 to 2. Now, that proves that he was brought up in a large city and never was in a village overnight. And if he would deceive us about his youth who knows what he would do with our funds?"

"But what is there in his baseball story to show that he never lived in the country?"

"Why, baseball scores in the country are always about 50 to 18 or something like that."—Buffalo Express.

A Bad Witness.

A small Scottish boy was summoned to give evidence against his father, who was accused of making disturbances on the street. Said the magistrate to him:

"Come, my wee man, speak the truth and let us know all ye ken about this affair."

"Weel, sir," said the lad, "d'y'e ken Inverness street?"

"I do, laddie," replied his worship.

"Weel, ye gang along it and turn into the square and cross the square!"

"Yes, yes," said the judge encouragingly.

"An' when ye gang across the square ye turn to the right and up into High street an' keep on up High street till ye come to a pump."

"Quite right, my lad; proceed," said his worship. "I know the old pump well."

"Weel," said the boy, with the most infantile simplicity, "ye may gang an' pump it, for ye'll no pump me."—Ideas.

Where Lucrezia Erred.

Lucrezia Borgia considered herself uncommonly expert in detecting vegetable poisons.

Having resolved upon giving a family dinner party she went out into the fields and along by the purling brook and gathered, as she supposed, enough toadstools to poison a regiment.

But, alas! Her boasted knowledge was the usual sham, and that night she fed her guests on a peck of the finest mushrooms they ever tasted.

Lucrezia waited around several days for the mortuary returns to come in and then took to her bed and died of ingrowing chagrin.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mother's Morning Prayer.
"Edith, do you say your prayers every morning?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

"No, teacher. I don't pray every morning, but my mamma does," said little Edith.

"And what prayer does your good mamma say?" asked the teacher.

"She says, 'Oh, Lord, how I hate to get up!'"—National Monthly.

Papa's Prayer.

The Garsides returned home from the mountains one day last week. Next morning the little daughter of the family announced:

"I heard papa say his prayers last night."

"What did he say, dear?"

"He said, 'Thank God for this bed!'"—Newark News.

How It Happened.

"How did you lose your husband?" asked the stranger of the woman up north.

"We were out in the woods together," said she sadly, "and I called him 'dear,' and before he could answer me some city fellow shot him by mistake."—Detroit Free Press.

A story is told in St. Petersburg which illustrates the phenomenal physical strength of the old czar. At a little station not far from the capital the imperial train was delayed for quite a time, and the czar, being hungry, partook of some of the simple food of the buffet. Meanwhile the little daughter of the mayor presented the empress with a bouquet, the flowers of which were hastily gathered from private hothouses in the neighborhood. The stalks being still damp and earthy, the empress visibly hesitated to take the bouquet in her neatly gloved hand. The czar coolly took up one of the heavy pewter plates on the table, and twisting it as if it were paper, made a neat covering for the stalks. There is nothing incredible in the story, since the czar had been known to bend a kitchen poker as an ordinary man would a strip of tin.

Vegetables In Tudors' Time.

What did people eat before they had the potato as a staple article of diet? Apparently they had most of the vegetables that we have now. Of Londoners in the time of the Tudors, Sir Walter Besant tells us that they ate lettuce as a separate dish before the meat, used turnip leaves as a salad and roasted the turnip itself in wood ashes. Horseradish and carrots were known to them, and capers were served boiled in oil or vinegar. Cucumbers, radishes, parsnips and cabbages also figured at the Tudor meal table, for which, by the way, they boiled their oysters and spread their beef with honey. It would be fun in these days to eat—or refuse—a Tudor meal.—London Chronicle.

A Whistler Story.

When Whistler had not yet reached the height of his fame a millionaire called at his studio and wanted his wife's portrait done. "How much will you charge me, Mr. Whistler?" he said, "for a lifesize picture of the madam?" "My price," said Whistler, "will be $2,500." The millionaire took up his hat and stuck.

"Why," he snorted, turning to go, "you expect to be paid for your work as if you had been dead four or five hundred years!"

Seal Oil Ice Cream.

A favorite dish with the Eskimos is an ice cream made of seal oil into which snow is stirred until the desired consistency has been obtained; then frozen berries of different kinds are added. This concoction is said to be about as tempting to the civilized palate as frozen cod liver oil.

A Legal Quibble.

RED TAPE IN PRAGUE.

While the Officials Wrangled the Matter Settled Itself.

A delightful story of circumlocution comes from Prague. One of the least imposing of the bridges in the city, the Liebner Brucke, connects two suburbs. Some time ago the toll collector discovered that some rabbits had invaded the district and concluded that their burrowings might threaten the stability of the bridge, so he called the burgomaster's attention to the matter. The burgomaster decided that it did not come within his province, but he sent the representation to the committee managing the public slaughter houses. The committee examined the rabbits and found they were wild, so they could do nothing, and as it was a close time the aid of the sportsman could not be impressed. Still, they did not relieve them of their moral responsibility.

The Prague slaughter house committee in turn informed the Stadtratpräsident, but the matter was not within its jurisdiction. Yet the stability of the bridge was beyond all things necessary, so the dossier was sent to the central authority for buildings. This body went into the matter and concluded that the water authority should deal with the subject. But, no; the water board opined that it was for the conservators of rivers, and this body decided that rabbits could not be brought within the domain of things fluvial and that the burgomaster was the right party to take action. The dossier having completed the circle of possible departmental travels, the burgomaster decided to act. He appointed a committee of investigation. The committee went to the bridge in four carriages, and then they learned that the rabbits had taken their departure for some months.—Munchner Nachrichten.

What the Death Mask Shows.

The value of a plaster cast as a portrait of the dead or living face cannot for a moment be questioned. It must of necessity be absolutely true to nature. It cannot flatter; it cannot caricature. It shows the subject as he was or is, not only as others saw him in the actual flesh, but as he saw himself. And in the case of the death mask particularly it shows the subject often as he permitted no one but himself to see himself. He does not pose; he does not "try to look pleasant." In his mask he is seen, as it were, with his mask off.

An Itemized Bill.

The departing guest, according to a writer in the London Opinion, scrutinized his bill and exclaimed, "Look here, you charge for writing paper and I haven't used a scrap all the time I've been here!" The Proprietor—Ah, pardon, monsieur. It is for the paper on which your bill is made out.

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM VISIT WASHINGTON FRIENDS

Washington friends are just learning that Mr. Charles Alleman and Miss Bertha Edwards were married in Covington, Ky., Thursday evening October the nineteenth.

Mr. Alleman was formerly a well-known Fayette countian and is now making his home in Greenfield.

The bride formerly lived in Bloomingburg and has made her home with Mr. Isaac Sollars and family since she was left an orphan.

Both young people have many warm friends in Washington and vicinity to wish them all happiness.

After a day in Cincinnati Mr. and Mrs. Alleman went to their home in Greenfield, coming over here Sunday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sollars.

James C. Dahlman, "Cowboy" Mayor of Omaha, "Throws the Lariat"

Mayor Jas. C. Dahlman is of an interesting and impressive personality. Starting his career as a cowboy, he is at present Mayor of Omaha, and has the following record to his credit: Sheriff of Dawes Co., Neb., three terms; Mayor of Chadron, two terms; Democratic Nat'l Committeeman, eight years; Mayor of Omaha, six years, and in 1910 Candidate for Governor of Nebraska. Writing to Foley & Co., Chicago, he says: "I have taken Foley Kidney Pills and they have given me a great deal of relief so I cheerfully recommend them." Yours truly,

35-Ton Capacity Enlarging Ice Plant

Monday morning the work of remodeling the Washington Ice Factory and increasing its capacity from 15 tons per day to 35 tons per day and adding a storage capacity of 200 additional tons, commenced, and throughout the winter the work will be carried on, so that by March 1st, 1912, the plant will be ready to run full capacity.

The old Natatorium is being utilized and converted into a storage room. The construction of this will be such that ice can be kept indefinitely, and in case of an emergency like the ice famine of the summer just ended, the storage ice can be used to relieve the situation.

However, there is little likelihood that this city will suffer another ice famine, as the local plant being remodeled will have more than double its present capacity, and the Greenfield plant with a 25-ton per day capacity, will give this territory 60 tons of ice each day where only 15 tons per day was available.

The large storage rooms and increased capacity is the natural growth of an ever increasing business done by the local plant, and outside towns can be taken care of to better advantage than ever before.

PHILLIES WIN SECOND GAME IN WORLD'S SERIES

Special to Herald.

Philadelphia, October 16.—The Philadelphia Athletics won the second game of the world's series today from the New York Giants.

McGraw sent the great Rube Marquard to the box, but was replaced in the 7th inning by Crandall.

Connie Mack used good judgement and sent in the mighty Plank to do the twirling and he won his game by the score of 3 to 1.

The score by innings:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R. H. E.
Phila 1 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 3 4 0
New York 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 5 3

Batteries—New York, Marquard-Myers, Crandall.
Philadelphia, Plank-Thomas.

Will Reclaim 30,000 Acres

Spokane, Wash., October 16.—Thirty thousand acres of fertile land along the Kootenai river, in northern Idaho, will be reclaimed by owners of land and settlers in the Kootenai valley as soon as the county commissioners sanction the plan to create a drainage district.

It is understood they favor the project, the expense of which will be borne by the owners of land in the district. The plans presented by the engineer in charge of the work calls for widening the west arm of the Kootenai river, the construction of canals along the foot hills of the land to be drained, the building of a series of dykes along the low banks of the stream and the installation of centrifugal pumps to lift the water into the river. It has been impossible to utilize the lands for crops heretofore on account of the annual overflow of the river. There are several highly successful dyke systems along the Washington-Idaho border, where thousands of acres of formerly waste lands have been reclaimed by drainage. Other plants will be established by settlers as rapidly as possible.

Scene Shifts To The Quaker City

Second Game of World's Series on This Afternoon.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—Smarting under their defeat in the first game of the world's series, the Athletics will today endeavor on their own grounds to turn the tables on the New York Giants. It hardly is necessary to tell anyone who follows American league baseball that the Mackmen are a hard team to beat on their home grounds. In fact they are about the most consistent performers in the major league on their own field, and their adherents feel confident that today will see the tables turned on the proud Giants.

Every seat for the game today has been sold and the park will probably have one of the largest crowds of its history. Restrictions regarding standing room probably will keep the attendance below the mark set by the Tigers when they played a double-header here in August, but there will be just as many patrons on the grounds as the management will permit to enter the gates. Speculators who have got hold of seats in the Quaker city are asking even more outlandish prices for them than their New York brethren demanded, which means that for any sort of a place of vantage a man will have to pay 20 to 50 large iron dollars.

GIANTS WIN OPENER

Nearly 40,000 Fans Witness First Game For World's Championship.

New York, Oct. 16.—In the presence of what was probably the greatest throng of baseball enthusiasts ever gathered together, the National league pennant winners, the New York Giants, defeated the American league title holders, the Philadelphia Athletics, by a score of 2 to 1 in the first game for the world's baseball championship, at the Polo grounds. The national commission announced that 38,281 persons had paid admission to witness the contest, and the gross receipts were $77,359.

It was a pitchers' duel from inning to inning, with the Indian, Bender, having the better of it during the early part of the contest. His superb-breaking curves swept with blinding speed over the plate and 11 Giants unable to fathom his service, struck out.

Mathewson sent back five Athletics to the bench by the strike-out route. Mathewson's service was effective when hits meant runs. He was the steadier, giving but one base on balls, while Bender passed four and hit one man. Mathewson employed his sweeping drop curve effectively with his fadeaway and a high, fast one, which sped across the plate with a jump to it.

ANOTHER GREAT PLAY

"Kid" Elberfeld Redeemed Himself After Making Error.

Scrappy Little Third Baseman Made Sensational Catch of Hot Hit Over Third Base and Caught Runner at Home Plate.

(By "WID" CONROE)
The greatest play I ever heard of was the one "Tacky Tom" Parrott made when he mistook an English sparrow for a line fly and caught it with one hand after a hard run. But the greatest I ever saw I believe was one Elberfeld pulled off in a game against New York a couple of years ago.

The game was close and up to the ninth, the score was tied, and the way things were breaking it looked as if we had the better chance to win out as we were hitting their pitcher harder than they were hitting ours. Elberfeld was playing third, and in the ninth inning of the game New York got a base hit, then I kicked one, and finally the kid kicked one and filled the bases with no one out. It was Saturday and there was a big crowd out and everyone in the stands seemed to cut loose at once to tell me and the kid what they thought of us as ball players. They called us everything they could think of, and one big fellow over in the bleachers stood up and informed me I was a disgrace to the Irish. It just goes to show how quickly a player can turn from a hero to a dub in the eyes of the fans.

The next batter hit the ball hard and almost over the top of third base. When he hit it the runners on first and second were going with the pitch, but for some reason the runner on third was late in starting and that made the play possible. Elberfeld jumped at the ball and stabbed it with one hand back of the base. That might have happened with any fielder. It wasn't the stop itself that made the play seem so great to me, but the way Elberfeld acted and thought. He jumped to third base, touched the bag, forcing the runner coming up from second, and then slammed the ball to the plate—and the catcher tagged out the runner there and made the double play. That saved us and we won out in the tenth.

Elberfeld had figured as soon as he got the ball that the only way he could make a double play was backwards, and knowing the batter was fast he played to the plate for the runner who was off to a bad start. He must have had almost half a second in which to figure it out, but he calculated it perfectly.

MILLERS TO HAVE NEW PARK

If Negotiations Prove Successful Minneapoli Will Have Modern Grandstand in Two Years.

Minneapolis followers of the national pastime took notice the other day when the story leaked out that the Cantillons have in mind the making of a new baseball park within easy walking distance of the center of the business district, to have a seating capacity double that of Nicollet park. The Cantillons, it is stated, are dickering for coveted property, and the building of the new park hinges wholly upon their ability to close the deal.

Even if the negotiations are successful, it is stated, it is unlikely that the park will be ready for occupancy next season. In the event of purchase the building of a modern grandstand, the bleachers and the diamond will be timed so that the 1913 season will find the Minneapolis team of the American association in a new and superb home.

TIGERS IN GREAT PLAY

Charlie O'Leary and "Germany" Schaefer Were Stars.

"Impossible" Double Play Is Made by Two Detroiters During Sensational Series With the Philadelphia Athletics.

(By EDGAR WILLETT)
If I live to be as old as Sam Thompson there is one series of games I never will forget. And when I forget that series there will be one play still left in my mind. The series is the one that the Tigers and Athletics played late in that season when we fought them out to the finish away from home and won by a nose the right to play Chicago for the world's championship.

For exciting situations and desperate playing, I believe that series is the greatest ever played. The nineteen-inning game in which we beat them is only a part of it. But the play that I never can forget was one by which Charlie O'Leary and Hermann Schaefer saved one of the games for us. Just how O'Leary ever managed to make that play I can't guess. It was one of those impossible plays that a game player sometimes makes simply because he has to make it.

The situation, as I recall it, was this: Detroit was one run to the good late in the game, and it looked as if that one run was about enough to win on, until, with one out either in the seventh or eighth inning, two sharp hits put Athletic runners on first and third and made it look bad for the Tigers. The next batter up—I have forgotten who it was, but think it was Harry Davis—hit the ball straight through the box and as clean across the top of second base as a hit ever went.

Both men on the bases were running when the ball was hit and it looked bad. The ball got over second base, with Schaefer diving at it; but he couldn't reach, and then, ten feet or more back of the bag, O'Leary came from nowhere, and while going as fast as he could run scooped that ball with one hand almost on the ground. It seemed as if he caught the ball and threw backward with the runner who was coming down from same motion, and the ball went to Schaefer at second base, forcing the first. Germany's back was toward first base. He didn't turn or try to turn, but threw backward across his body to Rossman, straight as a die, and doubled the fellow who had hit the ball.

I think that was the greatest play I ever saw, and as it turned out it saved the game for Detroit.

GOSSIP OF SPORTDOM

As Stagg grows more pessimistic the roosters get more optimistic.

Football really isn't football unless played in mud or on frozen ground.

It's too bad the boxing game is judged by its worst representatives.

Soccer is a great game—if one knows what they are running around for.

Golf is one sport which will forever attempt at blood and thunder novels.

One always can tell Maroon football prospects by believing the opposite of what Stagg feels.

IRREGULAR HOURS SAPS VITALITY

Manner of Living in the United States Taxes Ones Reserve Power to Its Limit.

In a recent interview one of the physicians who are introducing the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" to the American public, had this to say:

"The manner of living in the larger cities of the United States is such that perfect health is almost impossible; the human machine will not run true and strong day after day with its vitality continually being sapped by the constant nervous strain. Irregular hours, hastily eaten food, the wear and tear and rush of city life, are largely responsible for the immense amount of dull, listless, half-sick people of the present generation. Debility or a 'run down' condition as it is called, is everywhere. Half the people I see in street cars, restaurants, theaters, or on the street, are unmistakably in a debilitated condition, with their nerves in such a state that they either wish to lie down and rest or rush after some excitement.

"Any one who has met a constant stream of nervous debilitated people as I have since I began my present work, can tell a man or woman in this condition at a glance. I wish to emphatically state that the number of debilitated people in the larger American cities, is appalling.

"Tona Vita," the medicine I am helping introduce, is to combat this condition. I believe it to be the best preparation ever before sold to the public, in that it is immediately effective in cases of debility and other troubles that go hand in hand with this disease."

You can not hope to enjoy life or meet with much success if you are tired all the time, have little ambition, and feel continually depressed in mind and body. Every half-sick, worn-out man or woman, owes it to themselves and their family, to try "Tona Vita." If the tonic does not make life more worth living, and brings back the healthy, energetic spirit, that is now lacking, the price is refunded. Brown's Drug Store has the agency for "Tona Vita" in Washington C. H., also for Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the purest and best family laxative on the market. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative will not injure the most delicate constitution. It is ideal for children.

Cincinnati Wins

Cincinnati Trims Cleveland and Retains State Championship.

Cleveland, Oct. 16.—The Ohio baseball championship stays in Cincinnati. George Suggs decided that when he shut the Naps out, 7 to 0, in the second game of a double-header after the Clevelanders had topped the first game, 4 to 2, Kaler was invincible in the first act, allowing the Red men but five hits. Blanding started in the second game and lasted two-thirds of an inning, during which time Griffith's men piled up four runs and five hits.

The total receipts of the series was $9,423.75, the Cincinnati players dividing $3,053.28 and the Naps $2,035.53.

Holds Golden Jubilee

Cardinal Gibbons Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary of Service.

Baltimore, Oct. 16.—The pontifical mass at the cathedral in celebration of the golden jubilee of Cardinal Gibbons, was one of the most elaborate ecclesiastical pageants ever witnessed in that historic edifice.

In spectacular splendor, impressiveness of ritual and hieratic distinction it has probably never been surpassed in the United States. To do honor to the primate of the American church illustrious prelates, purpled monsignors, priests of piety, learning and executive renown, eminent persons among the laity, came from far and near.

Glidden Tour Starts.

New York, Oct. 16.—Seventy-eight cars of many different makes started on the 12-day Glidden tour, arranged by the American Automobile association. After leaving New York the cars will pass through the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, ending in Florida.

CAPTAIN ROGERS' SLIDE

Bald Mountain or Rogers' Rock on the west shore of Lake George rears its ponderous bulk of granite to an almost perpendicular height of 1,100 feet, being matched by a similar bulk and height on the east, half a mile away. Here Captain Rogers and his small army on snowshoes were defeated by a large army of French and Indians. The small remnant were scattered through the forest at the top of the mountain, and a party of Indians tracked the marks of the snowshoes of the refugees. When Rogers became aware that he was likely to be driven over the precipice, he made his way to the brink, threw his pack and accoutrements down the slide to the lake. He then turned his snowshoes around and, after stealing along the edge of the hill, made his way down the lake, picked up his pack, reversed his snowshoes and sped southward to the Narrows, where he was met by Captain Stark with reinforcements and provisions. The Indians followed Rogers' tracks to the brink, where, seemingly, were two tracks to the precipice. They concluded that two white men had slid down to the ice below. While gazing, they saw a mile away the form of Rogers. But considering him under the special protection of the Great Spirit, they made no further pursuit.

DEATH FORETOLD IN DREAM

A fatal accident that was foretold in a dream was described at an inquest at Oak Hill, near Birmingham, on the body of a miner named Benjamin Westwood, who was killed at the Fly colliery, says the London Chronicle.

His brother, William, said that on Tuesday night he had a dream, and in it he saw his brother killed. He added: "I did not go to work on Wednesday morning, for my dream made me so ill that I was unable to leave my bed, and have been unable to do any work since."

"In my dream I saw a considerable quantity of coal fall from the roof onto my brother, knock him down and kill him, and from what those who witnessed the accident have told me, my dream was fulfilled. I did not go to my brother's house to warn him, as I was too ill to leave home."

"GOLDEN GATE" NAMED HERE

Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras, has erected several interesting memorials on his estate near San Francisco, and among them is the tower here pictured. It stands on the spot from which General Fremont first saw and named the Golden Gate, the strait that connects the Pacific ocean and the Bay of San Francisco. The tower faces due west and has an unobstructed view of the strait. To the spectator, looking from it, the sun seems to set at the Golden Gate.

LIGHTNING CALCULATORS

The clerical staffs of many of the big insurance companies have of late years been considerably reduced by the employment of mechanical calculators.

One of these, the invention of a German, is a compact little affair resembling a music box. It may be made to perform almost instantaneously the most portentous sums in addition, subtraction, multiplication by one or two factors, division, squaring and cubing. It is required, for instance, to multiply 531,975 by 924. The first factor is set by touching little knobs representing 531,975.

To multiply by the other factor you turn a handle four times, push a long slide one place and turn the handle twice, then push the slide another place onward and turn the handle nine times. The long multiplication is now done without the possibility of error so far as the machine is concerned and the dial shows 491,544,900. In the same mechanical way may be done all the other arithmetical processes.

LOBSTER THREE FEET LONG

The Portland (Me.) fishing steamer Carrie and Mildred a few days ago brought in a lobster from outside that was the largest taken off the Maine coast for a number of years. The crustacean weighed a strong seven pounds and was nearly three feet in length. The legs were nearly as large as the claws of an ordinary lobster, while the claws were huge affairs.

WHEN CARBON BOILS

When an electric arc light blisses, the carbon, melted from one of the rods, is actually boiling in the little crater formed in the end of the rod. The superheated liquid, with blinding flashes of light, moves and jumps about very much as water does on beginning to boil.

SOUTHERN POINT OF NATION

The most southern point of mainland territory in the United States is on a sharp bend of the Rio Grande about 20 miles southwest of Brownsville. The government official survey shows that its latitude is 25 degrees and 9 minutes, which places it below the most southern part of the peninsula of Florida, but not as far south as Key West. The spot is marked by a group of picturesque Mexican ranch buildings with their thatched roofs. Growing upon the land are groves of wild palm trees which lend to the beauty of the tropical scene. The distance between Brownsville and the mouth of the Rio Grande in a direct line is approximately 22 miles, but the river has so many curvatures that its course between the two points covers 110 miles, according to the survey of the international boundary commission, which is composed of the representatives of the United States and Mexican governments. Before the river empties into the gulf it makes a sharp bend to the south, and this rounded peninsula forms the most southern mainland of the country. Most of the territory between Brownsville and the Rio Grande's mouth is covered by a dense wilderness of chaparral. The soil is of primitive richness, caused by the periodical deposits of silt from the stream's overflow. Owing to the inaccessibility of the little Mexican ranch, which holds the distinction of marking the most southern spot, the place has been visited by very few Americans.

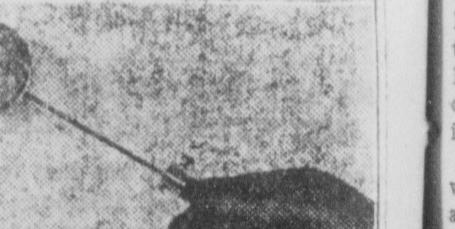

WHERE MANITOUE SPEAKS

A familiar landmark near Hayton, Wis., is the old "Council Elm" that stands at a bend in the Manitowoc river a short distance below Hayton. The Pottawatomie Indians who once occupied this region regarded the tree with awe and veneration, believing it endowed with special attributes by the Manitou or Great Spirit. Under its shade all important councils of the tribe took place. As a meeting place for representatives of the different northwestern tribes who wished to enter the Pottawatomie territory, it must have witnessed some strange scenes. Each spring and fall all the Pottawatomie clans were wont to gather at the spacious camping ground near the tree. For days the beating of drums, the chanting of barbaric songs and fantastic dances occupied the attention of the savages. Among the many Indian legends concerning the tree one of the few that has survived is to the effect that the Manitou speaks to his people in the rustle of its leaves and the sigh of the winter wind through the bare branches.

MULE AND BEAR FIGHT DUEL

The story of a duel to the death between a mule and a bear comes from Chambersburg, Pa. The mule came out victorious. Aroused by a commotion in his barn, Dan Shawley, lumberman and farmer, found the bear in combat with his pet mule. Contrary to the established custom the mule was using his front feet in the battle and peppering bruin a regular tattoo over the head. One savage slap by the mule broke one of the bear's front legs and the bulky animal fell prostrate. Then the mule reversed himself and let loose the death dealing assault from his hind quarters. The bear died shortly after Shawley reached the scene. It weighed 62 pounds and showed the marks of eight bullet punctures.

FORTUNE IN A SMALL DISC

In the radium institutes like the one recently opened in London there is nothing more wonderful to the visitor than the little square or circular trays of metal containing specks of radium in shellac varnish whose rays hold such vast possibilities in the future of mankind's struggle against disease. The disc illustrated contains 70 milligrams of radium, worth £1,350. The trays when applied to the patient are covered with metal caps or screens which lessen or intensify the power of the rays according to the nature of the disease. In the basement of the London institution is a strong room holding the largest stock of radium in the world. The scale-room where these tiny black specks of radium are weighed is a broad, lofty, white-tiled room absolutely vibration-proof.

DOG TO THE RESCUE

An exciting incident occurred at Atlantic City one morning recently when Joseph Gallagher attempted to swim around Young's old pier accompanied by a large shepherd dog. When off the end of the pier he was seized with cramps and
